“The quality of your choices determines
the quality of your life,
and I help my clients
choose well.”

Growing up in Louisiana with a father who was both an architect and watercolor artist, Janie Hirsch came into her craft predisposed to creating beautiful interiors. Her professional career began in New York City working as a lighting designer after graduating from Louisiana State University with a Bachelor of Interior Design from the School of Architecture. Janie believes a designer's gift and her secret to successful projects is to listen to each client, understand their lifestyle, and create unique solutions that translate into an elegant design reflecting their personality and style. One of Janie's signatures is using color as a neutral. Her method of designing curated, yet livable spaces has been effective, as her timeless designs have garnered dozens of local and national awards, and a nomination for Southeast Designer of the Year. J. Hirsch Interior Design is a full-service Interior Design firm with clients spanning the Southeast, and has been featured across various media outlets, including Traditional Home, Décor, and Beautiful Homes magazines, along with numerous coffee table books on fine design. Janie is the Past President of the Georgia Chapter of ASID and now serves as a National Chapter Support Team member working as a regional support guide and liaison between Presidents and Headquarters.
